The NEW Sales Contract

After almost 10 years, the real estate industry has an updated contract for the sale of land. The new contract, now known as the “Contract for the sale and purchase of Land” was issued by the New South Wales Law Society in November 2014. However, do not expect to see it in full force for some time.

The new Contract is a soft copy only document, paving the way for electronic conveyancing to become the norm within the next twelve months. One of the major changes to the contract is clause 30, which sets out how electronic conveyancing will operate and the effect it will have on the contract, even setting out what happens if certain computer systems become inoperative at the time of settlement.

Solicitors and Conveyancers are not being forced to move to the online format immediately and are expected to continue to use their old blue hard copy (2005 version) contracts for some time. However there will not be a hard copy contract available to purchase in the 2014 format, so eventually the whole process will be moved online.

As with anything “new” it is expected that there are a number of changes within the contract. This will primarily affect Solicitors and Conveyancers – for Agents there are not too many differences. Some of the main changes are on the front page and are as follows:

• The Contract is now called “Contract for the sale and purchase of land”
• Possible improvements have been added to include storage space
• Solar panels have been added to the inclusions list
• There is now a space for a Buyer’s Agent to be listed
• Vendor’s duty has been removed
• New tick box for the vendor to indicate if they are willing to accept deposit bonds

The new contract has also come into line with the new Swimming Pool legislation in time for the compulsory provision of compliance

Breaking News – Swimming Pools:
NSW Fair Trading have announced that the requirement for a Compliance Certificate to be attached to either a residential lease or the Contract for the Sale and Purchase of Land, has been extended. This is now not required until 29th April 2016 – giving an extension of 12 months.
certificates as of 29th April 2015 by adding the compliance certificates and/or occupation certificates to the list of general documents that can be attached to the contract.

We will surely remind you of your compliance obligations closer to the time of its eventual rollout, however, this reinforces that the swimming pool compliance certificates will officially be a prescribed document within the contract for the sale and purchase of land.

The final change we wish to tell you about is quite a change for the whole contract. In previous contracts for the sale of land there has always been a penalty for purchaser defaults and the right for the vendor to terminate the contract but never for that right to be reciprocated to the purchaser should the vendor default or breach the agreement in some way. The new clause 8.2 provides the express right of termination for the purchaser where the vendor does not comply with the contract to bring the contract more into line with the unfair contract terms within the Australian Consumer Law.

This is something you need to be aware of. If your vendor breaches the agreement the purchaser now has the right under the new contract to terminate the contract for that breach.

This one change could cause some problems with your vendors who feel they have all the power in the sale….. the times, they are a changing.

Til next time,
Wishing you every success in your business ventures,
Rosy Sullivan

News from the Office

This week our trainers have been extremely busy John Sullivan travelled to Melbourne for our Victorian licence program, Rosemary was up in Ballina and Tweed Heads, George training in Goulburn, Rosy was in the Blue Mountains and Orange for CPD training and John Upton travelled to both Dubbo and Newcastle. Our Sydney CBD courses continue to fill up very quickly with our Certificate of Registration course at capacity and CPD courses are still running at very high numbers.

With a very busy week and phones ringing off the hook here at the College, we will definitely be missing Imogen and Braden who both start back at uni for the year. With the change in staff also came the change of desk arrangements and some interior decorating for our office. With the College expanding so quickly we made room for more desks and hopefully for more of our staff to start working in the office.

With the high demand in training also comes the high demand of production of our learning materials, and Brittany, our accounts assistant, is now also helping the production team put together all our learning materials.

The College also had another birthday celebration - George, one of our senior trainers, celebrated his birthday during the week. His desk was decorated and once all our travelling trainers returned we had…. Cake!
